Four Princeton Churches Launch Difficult Search for New Pastors

As September rolls into gear, four churches are searching for new pastors, replacing men who have been here for nearly a decade or more.

"The Princeton churches have the luxury of time," says Rev. Dr. Arlo Duba of Princeton Theological Seminary. "They have so many resources in the community — the University and the Seminary. Churches in the boondocks don't have this."

Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church looked for over a year before calling the Rev. Floyd N. Rhodes, who will be installed on September 24.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, shocked by the sudden death of its pastor, F. Hugh Lillington, in March, organized in April-May under the chairmanship of Mrs. Esther Bloom and has only just completed a highly detailed church information form.

Lutheran Church of the Messiah started in June and Princeton Baptist Church, West Windsor, in July to search for pastors. First Presbyterian Church began to form its pulpit committee last Sunday.

Why did their ministers leave? They seemed to have reached a bend in their careers: Dr. Luther Kriewall of Messiah Lutheran, who holds doctorates in theology and literature, is in Germany where he will be working on a book for the next year.

Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First Presbyterian Church becomes pastor on October 1 of Westminster Presbyterian Church in his home area of Minneapolis. He leaves for a center city church of 3,331 members who operate a hospital, suburban ministries, and a heavy schedule of community services.

Dr. Walter P. Carvin, who received his doctorate at Princeton Seminary during his 10 years as minister of Princeton Baptist Church, left in August to become head of First Baptist Church of Warren, O. "I have completed ten good years with you," he told the congregation, "and have myself grown in grace and knowledge. It is time for me to go."

Messiah Lutheran's board of elders is serving as a pulpit committee. They, too, have yet to interview a candidate. However, six clergymen ordained in the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod are members, as are 24 professional teachers, so the fall plans are all set, according to B. E. Bergeson Jr., of the elders' board.

"We are looking for a man with some experience," Mr. Bergeson says. "Our pastor is also pastor for the Lutheran students on the campus.

"He must be a man of some graduate training, and with intellectual and academic interests. We realize that this is a Presbyterian town and an ecumenical town, so this man is a Lutheran voice in that milieu.

"About fifty percent of our members are Princeton Borough and Township members. The rest are in Belle Mead, the Windsors, and some as far away as Hightstown. Beyond that, we are very much like Princeton. It's a high socio-economic level. There's high mobility, members come and go. And a high educational level."

Messiah Lutheran has developed a profile on the church and community for the enlightenment of interested clergy.

"We will end up with 12 to 20 names," Mr. Bergeson says. "They are not candidates in the sense that they have applied. Rather, they are people who someone feels would be the kind of minister we are looking for."

Frequent Meetings. While Messiah Lutheran elders meet twice a month, the St. Andrew's committee gathers two and sometimes three times a week, developing a detailed picture of the community and congregation. Members of the session analyzed goals and objectives.

Some of our greatest strengths lie in the fact that we have a great

Settlement Reached on Police Advisory Board

After wrestling with the divisive problem for more than six months, Borough Council settled for a compromise solution on expansion of the Police Committee, adopting a resolution to add three citizen members only in an advisory capacity.

In its regular meeting Tuesday night, which saw, with one exception, a less inflammatory tone among those who spoke, Council first defeated the original ordinance to add three citizens to the committee with voting powers.

First proposed by the Civil Rights Commission after a police incident involving Richard Silvus last February, the ordinance was the subject of two heated debates last May and June. A young black laundry truck driver, Mr. Silvus was arrested and strip-searched on suspicion of having number slips.

Tabled in June, so attorney Gordon Griffin could research its legality, (Princeton PBA's attorney Lawrence Stein declared it was illegal and threatened a court fight) the ordinance evidently lost steam over the summer.

Police Commissioner Arthur Morgan announced he was changing his position, after all three favored giving Chief Carnevale and his department a chance to handle the problem first, and then appoint a committee if it appeared no further progress was being made.

He pointed to the addition of the hot line number to police headquarters, Chief Carnevale's plan to set aside one night a month to talk to residents on any subject, and a set of rules and regulations governing the police that are now in effect after a decade of work.

Moore in Favor. "I'm satisfied that procedures worked out for handling citizen complaints are clear and fair,"

This Is Princeton

Mr. Morgan added Charles Cornforth echoed many of these sentiments and when Martin P. Lombardo chose to abstain, the final vote of 4-1-1 found only Joseph Moore in favor.

Citing the Silvus case, plus the incident involving a black demonstrator at IDA last spring and the non-acceptance of minorities members by the fire departments here, Mr. Moore commented, "I wonder whether we will continue to breach integrity for the sake of the status quo."

This brought a sharp outburst from Princeton resident Raymond Rodewell, who defended the fire companies' willingness to accept blacks and said to Mr. Moore, "You're a legend, a bigger legend than I am."

Robert Hendry's resolution enabling the Mayor to appoint three citizens as an advisory committee was opposed by Thomas Cawley, Mr. Cornforth and Mr. Morgan. Pointing to the work already begun,

"Time Is Now." "I think the time is now," reported Max D. Blumenfeld, Chairman of the Civil Rights Commission. "We still need to establish lines of communication to the blacks and youth in our community." Let's not delude ourselves that everything is going to be just dandy from now on.

"I think we ought not to forget that there is a severe problem and that it is just not going to go away," Mayor Cawley added in support of the measure.

At his Tuesday press conference, Mayor Cawley said he felt there was a "gross over-reaction by many people" against the original plan to add three voting members. "The people we planned to put on it would have done a fine job. If the advisory group doesn't work, I would easily be swayed back to voting membership plan," he added.

In the end the vote was 4-2 for the resolution, with nay votes coming from Mr. Cornforth and Mr. Morgan. An amendment was added making it effective for one year.

Mr. Lombardo, who expressed his support for naming policemen to the advisory committee, then introduced an amendment which would have replaced Administrator Robert Mooney as a voting member of the committee with a fourth councilman.

Mr. Lombardo said only elected officials should serve on the committee, and that Mr. Mooney should not have the power to vote on questions of salary and promotions for deal of lay leadership. Because of the kind of a community this is, we have a great many organizational skills," Mrs. Bloom comments. "Another advantage is that the pastor has an opportunity for continuing education."

"But one of our problems is that people get transferred. They just get started on something and they have to move away." The church has called the Rev. Willard H. Wellman, a native of Minnesota to now on leave from St. Andrew's Kirk, Georgetown, Guyana, S.A., as interim minister.

St. Andrew's is not as concerned about a minister's age, as it is for the need to find one with considerable experience. "It's too big a job for somebody right out of the seminary."

Salaries Above Average. Salaries in Princeton are above average in their denominations, in addition to providing a residence and certain social benefits. "The minimum in the Presbyterian church is $7500, plus the package benefits," Mrs. Bloom notes. "Some of us feel that we should be more generous than is practical—but this is an expensive community." "A significant portion of churches can't pay even half a salary," Dr. Duba of Princeton Seminary comments. "They get along with an occasional minister, or lay preachers, or belong to a group of churches served by one minister."

"We don't have really any significant difficulty placing our graduates right out of the seminary. A bachelor can cope with a low salary. But the difficult time is when a person moves in mid-career. He hopes he will be in demand in a larger parish, not only for his own contribution,

Progress Made Toward Revised Township Zoning

A document of concern and affection for a community emerged Monday evening as Princeton Township's Planning Board held a second public session on its proposed revisions of the zoning ordinance. Matters discussed ranged from homes versus commercial interests on lower Witherspoon Street, to flats, to private school needs, to the right to unblocked light in a window, to heliports and helistops, to buildings put up before zoning was thought of, to noise, to top soil removal in the flood plain area, heavy trucking, cooking in rented rooms, "look-alike design" in housing developments, and more.

New Residence Districts. Chairman Hans K. Sander noted in a statement prefacing the discussion, "Several of the older sections of the Township were laid out and built upon long before the present zoning laws were adopted. Because of the small size lots they are used, almost none of the properties in those areas conform to current zoning requirements."

The problem is the difficulties that homeowners encounter when they try to improve their homes by adding to the floor area. In most cases, an owner who wants to make reasonable changes which in no way affect his neighbors must seek a variance from the Board of Adjustment at considerable cost in legal fees."

The proposed zoning ordinance sets up three new residential districts for the areas that fail to meet current zoning requirements: "R-7," south of the Princeton Shopping Center and park; between Harrison Street and Grover Avenue; to just north of Harry's Book; "R-8," from Witherspoon Street to Harrison, south of Guyot

Avenue; and "R-9," roughly the new zoning shoots down Birch and Lehigh Avenues, between Witherspoon and Rue Street.

New regulations apply to the three new districts, drawn up with the thought that property improvements will be made by individuals rather than developers. "We have tried to make the regulations conform more nearly to the facts as they exist," Mr. Sander noted. "We have relaxed slightly the side yard and floor area ratio requirements, and we have copied the Borough in permitting the flexibility of combined sideyard requirements."

The addition of a dormer window to make an attic livable, or enclosure of a terrace or addition of a room, "inside height and yard limitations," are approved. A major enlargement of a house requires approval of the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Witherspoon Merchants. Petitioners, representing commercial enterprises on Witherspoon Street, a boundary of the new R-9 residential district, appeared Monday to reinforce their statement that

"The conflict simmered down as the board members and petitioners began weighing compromise proposals; confining business to one or both sides of Witherspoon Street. — Continued on Next Page

Excerpt from Proposed Township Zoning Ordinance

"There are a substantial number of homeowners in the Township whose family circumstances have changed over the years by the departure of children who have become adult, or by the death of a spouse, or have been severely affected by the increased cost of living. Indeed, some who have lived in Princeton all their lives are finding that they can scarcely afford to do so, yet they own their own homes here."

Decision on Bars Delayed
In other business, a minor mistake in the drafting of the bill allowing longer bar hours weekdays and Sunday hours for those bars not serving food, gave Councilmen another month in which to ponder after months of work by a citizens committee has been version will be acted upon at the October meeting.

Borough bar owners again showed up to reiterate their position that the high license fees (more than $1,700 annually) and shorter hours compare to other municipalities constitute a serious inequity.

Although Mrs. Katherine Edwards spoke in opposition to having the bars open longer in the John Witherspoon area, the only real objector to the ordinance appeared to be Princeton Township representative by Administrator Joseph Nini.

A similar request has been denied in the Township. Mr. Nini reported he had asked Council to do the same, saying that in the Township no public need had been demonstrated for the longer hours, and they would interfere with the peace and quiet of the neighborhoods around them. "The same factors apply in the Borough," Mr. Nini said.

More Noise on Noise. Council is going to have another crack at an anti-noise ordinance, after the first one, passed four years ago, has run into enforcement problems according to police.

The new ordinance, first presented to Council last May month in which to ponder after months of work by a citizens committee has been version will be acted upon at the October meeting.

However, it has already come in for some criticism by Borough Democratic candidates Mrs. Barbara Sigmund and Robert Pivell. The two said the measure "has good intentions, but is too vague, probably unenforceable, and is a potential threat to such individual rights as political assemblies, parades and even backyard dinner parties." Mr. Lombardo voiced his agreement with many of their opinions.

Lowell F. Curran Jr., representing homeowners on Budd Street, asked that Borough not turn over the old Miss Faire's gym to the Recreation Commission, but retain control itself. Only in this way can the noise level be kept down, and Council gave this response.

sibility to its neighbors, Mr. Curran said.

Finally, Mr. Hendry wants the Borough taxpayer to know that Council is committed to trying to keep his taxes in line. Pointing out that 63 percent of the land in the Borough is tax-exempt, Mr. Hendry said there might be a possibility of asking the state for grants-in-aid. "Our position is worse than Newark," he added.

persists from the Borough line to approximately the Valley Road School.

Philip Collins, owner of lots on the B-2 zone on Route 206, which include the Professional Building, suggested changes "to bring the ordinance into conformance with existing conditions."

"What if the existing conditions are not optimum?" planner Abbie Moffat asked. "Why should we make them standard?"

"Why not?" Mr. Collins said. He added that the Township zoning climate is "unfriendly to development."

Rentals. The rental of rooms and "flats" would be permitted under the proposed ordinance. "It is well known that

In the first two weeks of September, rainfall has been a tenth of what we need, and despite the heavy precipitation earlier this year, the total for 1972 is far below normal.

Midweek showers are a possibility, with a return to higher temperatures and increasing humidity forecast thereafter. No real rain in sight.

There are many instances where rooms are in fact rented to paying tenants, but being illegal, with no assured safeguards against fire or health hazards," Mr. Sander commented.

One or more rooms may be rented without cooking facilities to one or two tenants. If there are two tenants, there must be a private bathroom provided. A companion ordinance would require a certificate from the health officer before rooms are rented. Parking space must be provided for tenants.

"Flats," distinguished from apartments in apartment buildings, are required to have living and sleeping space, cooking facilities and complete sanitary facilities. One of the rooms is required to be a bathroom, and any bedrooms must conform with the State Housing Code, in a minimum of 80 square feet. Parking space must be provided.

Flats on the third floor need means of egress in addition to the usual house staircase. To establish a flat, application would be made to the Township Zoning officer.

Due Notice. The planning board agreed to give notice to residents who would be affected by any changes made in the ordinance as a result of the August 14 and Monday's public meetings.

Mr. Breese sounded a note of the future when he suggested that provisions for "air-supported structures" should be included, as well as a device to control the "noise nuisance and some danger to neighbors" of the use of helicopters.

He said that the use of open space in a cluster subdivision should be spelled out, and noted that the proposed S-3 section (service) at the bottom of Bayard Lane would allow use by heavy trucking. "It might open up the area to a real nuisance."

The proposed zoning ordinance has been introduced at Township Committee. Amendments rising for the planners' public sessions will be forwarded to the Committee. The next forum for debate will be October 2.

DINKY CUT IN HALF

Sutphin Tells Committee. Last week's Township Committee meeting was rescued from the routine when, at the end, William Sutphin, Democratic candidate for a seat on Committee, informed the Republican-majority Committee that since May the Penn Central - except on weekends and special occasions - has been operating the "Dinky" between Princeton Junction and Princeton with only one 72-seat car instead of the required two.

This is in violation, he said, of a contractual agreement between the Penn Central and the N.J. Commuter Operating Agency, an arm of the State Department of Transportation. He added that in hearings on July 19 and again on August 30 he had brought the cutback to the attention of COA without success.

As a consequence, he continued, there are often more passengers than there are seats for the 7:20 and 7:40 runs in the morning and the 6:30 return in the evening.

After pointing out that the university had just opened for the fall semester and that traffic on the dinky could be expected to increase, Mr. Sutphin then addressed the board: "I suggest the Township make an official inquiry, expressing their concern, and what they intend to do to make the Penn

Money can grow faster than you think!

During the past three years, stocks have been in a bear market. However, during the same three years, some property owners in the Princeton area have made as much as 90% on their money invested in real estate.

You... money can grow faster than you think!

In a volatile land, money may only grow at about the same rate that inflation erodes its buying power. But there is a way to invest in real estate which creates long term capital gains that, in turn, can be reinvested for you... thus pyramiding your profits.

We can't guarantee that performance in the next year or so will equal last year's, but real estate prices have continued their steady upward trend.

Let me show you the figures. No obligation, of course.

hearing, October 2.

Incidentally, the Township won't pay a penny for the land. The Green Acres program will reimburse $70,000 to the Township and the federal government's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will pay the second half. Administrator Joseph R. Nini reported that the Township's application for matching funds to the two agencies has been approved.

Widening of the final section of Alexander Street up to the Borough line near the Princeton Inn College was postponed until January or February, at the suggestion of Township Engineer Joseph Hodak. Contracts were let to five contractors, he said, but all five declined to bid, each saying he had too much work to do. Mr. Hodak told the board, "It's too late to do it now."

To accommodate those who can't make it during the day for voter registration, the Township clerk's office will be open from 6:30 to 9, September 21-22 and 25-28 and Saturday morning, September 30, from 9-12.

In personnel matters, Committee accepted with regret the resignation of Leonard F. Newton, who cited increasing outside business interests, from the Citizens Advisory Council on Housing and permanently appointed officer Peter J. Savalli to Patrolman after a year of probationary service. Ptl. Savalli finished third in his training class at Sea Girt.

REC FACILITIES OKAYED

By Planning Board. An ordinance providing for the construction of several recreational facilities at Community Park cleared its final hurdle last week when the Regional Planning Board approved the ordinance and agreed that the proposed layout conformed to the Master Plan.

Included are two bocce courts, two handball courts and two platform tennis courts that will be erected on the south side of Community Park near the existing platform tennis courts and a basketball court that will be constructed on the Community Park school grounds near the bubble.

Recreation Director Donald Barr said Tuesday that he is in the process of drawing specifications so that construction can begin as soon as possible.

The board also approved an ordinance authorizing improvements to Tulane Street which calls for the demolition of the old Farr Hardware garages. In their place, the Borough will extend the Tulane Street parking lot to include 20 more spaces.

Cost to the Borough for the demolition and construction is $10,000.

Two site review applications quickly received the board's approval.

The Youth Tennis Foundation of Princeton which wants to use the old Red Cross building on University Place for offices was granted favorable site plan approval but then told to appear before the Borough Zoning Board later this month to seek the necessary variances it needs.

Queenston Common, the condominium rising on the corner of Harrison Street and Hamilton Avenue, has purchased a landlocked lot measuring .66 acres adjacent to the Borough Garage on Harrison Street. It came before the board with a plan to consolidate the lot into its existing lot and use it for recreation. Among the planned facilities: swimming pool, tennis and bocce courts, putting green and small play area.

Everything was in order, so down came the board's stamp of approval.

An application by the A&P Store in the Princeton Shopping Center involving construction of a proposed loading platform was withdrawn.

SIX ARE FINED
In Traffic Court. Six Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. in Borough traffic court.

Jay A. Seitz, 20, 335 Jefferson Road, was fined $40 for reckless driving and $25 for having no lights after dark. Paying fines of $15 each were Matthew T. Geis, 53, Nelson Ridge Road, illegal left turn; Claudia Cummins, 17, 14 Wynnwood Drive, Cranbury, failure to yield to turning vehicle; Patricia Langley, 29, 76 Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, speed

EIGHT IN TOWNSHIP. Eight were fined in Township court last week by Judge Burton Peskin.

Wagner, 22, 199 Nassau Street, $16; and Christopher B. Davis, 32, of Skillman, $30. Stop sign infractions cost Karen T. Kneller, 67, 162 Red Hill Road, $20, and Joseph Frediani, 50, Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, $15. Jack Ainsworth Jr., 25, 211 Mather Lane, and Edward W. Jonathan Rentschler, 26, of RD 4 paid $15 for careless driving.

CAR FLIPS ON 206
Driver Hospitalized. A 19-year-old Fieldsboro man was hospitalized Thursday evening when the small foreign car he was driving went out of control and flipped over on Route 206 near Mansgrove Road. Harold F. Boone of 40 Front Street was taken to the Princeton Medical Center by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. He sustained a broken vertebra, lacerations of the face and arms and multiple injuries. His condition was described Tuesday by a hospital spokesman as satisfactory.

'GOOSPEL' COMING
To McCarter in October. The touring company of the Off-Broadway musical hit Godspell will come to McCarter Theater Friday, October 13 at 8:30 for a single performance as part of the Playgoers' Series. Remaining single tickets go on sale at the box office Monday at 10 a.m.

The major hit of the 1970-71 off-Broadway season, Godspell is based loosely upon the Gospel according to St. Matthew, with music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz. It was originally conceived and directed by John Michael Tebelak, who has drawn from the spirit of Christ and his teachings rather than from the Bible in its literal sense.

Judaism, Zen, Baba — all religious influence the work which Mr. Tebelak calls a "free-form" theatrical work based on material from the New Testament."

Both performances of Anthony Shaffer's Broadway thriller Sleuth, which opens the Playgoers' Series on September 28 and 29, are already completely sold out. Standing room only is available at the McCarter box office.

26 FILMS PLANNED

nounced later this fall.
"Movies at McCarter" will include 20 films from the United States and six other nations, none of which have been previously seen in the Princeton area. Screenings will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings throughout the year at 8 p.m.

The series will open on Tuesday, October 3 with Pier Paolo Pasolini's "The Decameron," the Italian director's adaptation of 10 earthy tales from the bawdy renaissance classic. Pasolini himself appears in the film in the role of the painter Giotto.

One week later, on October 10, the roller derby will be the subject of Robert Kaylor's superlative cinema-verite documentary entitled "Derby," the saga of Mike Snell and his aspirations to be a roller derby star. Andrew Sarris called it the "most scintillating slice of American sociology to hit the screen in the past decade."

X-Rated from Yugoslavia. From Yugoslavia will come Dusan Makaveyev's controversial (and X-rated) "W.R.—Mysteries of the Organism," a combination of comedy, collage and polemic which takes as its point of departure the career of Wilhelm Reich, the Freud disciple who established his famous "Orgone Institute" in Maine in the 1930's.

Spain will be represented by Carlos Saura's black comedy "Garden of Delights;" Japan, by Ozu's masterpiece "Tokyo Story," recognized only recently as one of the great films of all time after being neglected for the past two decades.

Canada's entry will be Donald Shebib's independently-made feature "Goin' Down the Road," which deals with the "spiritual death" of the unskilled generation of young people who cannot cope successfully with their own aspirations.

Three French films will be included in the new McCarter series: Truffaut's neglected 1970 feature "Mississippi Mer-

COMEDY IS PLANNED

To Begin Intime's Season
Theatre Intime will begin its 1972-73 season with a barbed comedy entitled "The Hundred and First," written by Kenneth Cameron. The play will be performed Thursday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Hamilton Murray Auditorium on the Princeton University campus.

A political-social vehicle, it provides plenty of comment and comedy. Director S. Christopher Talbott deserves it as "a black farce, for lack of a better phrase. It contains elements of black comedy and farce, and attempts to create laughter in the bleakest and most uncouth of settings."

The setting director, Talbott speaks of is what a sociologist would call a "disadvantaged area." Francis Xavier Stock still is the leading character and the head of a family which is the one hundred and first on the New York Times' one hundred neediest cases list.

Stockstill's efforts to deal with the charities and courts of society form the plot. Getting help when he least expects it, he eventually discovers that no matter what they say, you can bend the system, but you will break before it does.

almost 20 years of the film version of Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire," in which Brando recreated his starring Broadway role as Stanley Kowalski.

"Streetcar" will be followed at 9:15 by a more recent Brando performance as Major Pendleton in John Huston's adaptation of Carson McCullers' "Reflections in a Golden Eye."

On Saturday, September 16, director Sam Peckinpah will be the featured artist. The McCarter double-bill will open with "The Ballad of Cable Hogue," starring Jason Robards, at 7:30, followed at 9:15 by "The Wild Bunch," which has become a classic of contemporary western cinema since its release in 1969.

Mr. Talbott is perhaps best known to Intime audiences in his roles of Herr Schwarz in "A Flea In Her Ear," and last spring as the I.R.A. officer in "The Hostage." Mr. Talbott has been actively involved with Theatre Intime for two years and is currently Publicity Director on Intime's Executive Board.

Joseph Harbinson had roles this season as Camille in "A Flea In Her Ear" and the title role of "Billy Liar," also had the leading role of Leslie in "The Hostage." Mr. Harbinson, who will play Stock still in "The Hundred and First," has also been active with Theatre Intime for two years and serves as Production Secretary for this Little Executive Board.

This season's opener has special half-priced rates of $1 for Thursday and $1.50 for Friday and Saturday. Reservations may be made by phone at Murray Theater, 472-8181.

By Creative Theatre for Youth. Anyone interested in the Creative Theatre for Youth drama classes for students second grade to high school should come to an open house and registration Tuesday and Wednesday, September 19 and 20 from 3 to 5:30 in the Small Theatre of the Unitarian Church.

Sharon Bown and Denise Schulz, directors of the school will be there to discuss the program. Ms. Bown and Schulz both have degrees in drama, have worked in theatre for over 10 years, have written and directed plays for children and adults, act as consultants in drama, teach teachers, as well as act.

In class students work with improvisation, story dramatization, creative playwriting, movement, work with materials, and work on a fully equipped stage.

Last year, Creative Theatre students wrote and produced six original plays, presented plays for children on Saturday, gave demonstrations for teachers, and workshops for children. Creative Theatre for Youth is the only professionally run program in drama in the area.

ART RESTORER: Alfredo Concilio of Princeton Center for Fine Arts Conservation, has a wallfull of flood damaged paintings to repair, all from Pennsylvania collectors.

IT'S NEW To Us

ART RESTORATIONS
At Princeton Center, Did you ever see a really "sick" painting . . . punched holes and rips in the canvas, paint cracked and curling off the surface, and over it all a coating of dried mud?

We saw several the other day, valuable works tortured in the Pennsylvania floods. Ironically, among them is a large landscape of the Lehigh River in a tranquil mood. The paintings are being restored by Alfredo N. Concilio, a native of Milan, son and grandson of art restorers, who has the Princeton Center for Fine Arts Conservation at Route 206 and Mansgrave Road. A sculptor, and also a painter, by inclination, he is a cheery young man with great affinity for the works of art he restores. "A sick painting" is his way of describing a damaged canvas.

"This one is by the French portraitist Dubufe, with some of the mud off. It was previously restored and now it's water-damaged again. It will take about a year to remove the mud, put a new canvas on the back . . ."

He shows you a portrait of a small child by J. G. Brown. "We know this American artist. He was a specialist in painting this kind of child — boys from the streets. There are cracks in the old canvas. It is very, very easy to transfer a painting to a new canvas, but it takes quite a lot of patience!"

Testimonial Offered. Mr. Concilio based his operations in Summit for eight years before he came here last June. "I can attest to the kind of work he does," offers Barry Snyder of the Princeton Gallery of Fine Arts. "I saw him take off a painting that was on top of another, reline it and restore the bottom. I saw both paintings. It was exquisite work."

If you should take a painting to the Princeton Center for Fine Arts Conservation, the first thing that Mr. Concilio would do is have it photographed as a matter of record of its condition.

Then the painting is examined with a battery of instruments and films. A stereomicroscope shows the origin of the cracks, identifying the forged cracks, if any. An ultraviolet light photograph shows the condition of the painting, revealing retouching.

Photographs with infrared film shows the original paint and gives the studio a means of studying the artist's style, his brushstrokes. Examination under X-ray looks under the paint, locating hidden paintings and signatures. The pigment is studied under a light microscope and a flake of pigment is analyzed chemically. The whole technique establishes the authenticity of the painting and serves to advise the method of restoration.

Family Tradition. "I learned from my father and from my grandfather. And I studied new methods in school in Milan under Professor R. Mancia. The art of restoration is no secret."

"You first detect the sickness of the painting. If some painting is covered with oil, or dirt of some kind, you don't use the same method to clean it. I never clean two paintings in exactly the same way . . . positively never!"

Although he calls restoration "a lost art," Mr. Concilio is training two people. "I'd like to repeat what my teacher in Milan told me: 'There are only five good restorers in the world!'"

He has a word of advice.

"Before people give a painting to a restorer, they should investigate how he works through references, perhaps from a museum. Somebody can destroy a painting in a studio and Hollywood couch new minutes. The public must be careful. I have seen fan-like bolster covers. There are tastefully beautiful paintings damaged because of bad restoration."

The work at Princeton Center for Fine Arts Conservation extends to work with water-supplier fabrics. Some are quilted; others have a hand-loomed appearance in multiple colors. Among the bags is one of Concilio held carefully in his black-and-white triangular patches.

FOR A SOFTER LIFE

Pillows From Home Decor. When you walk from the mall into Home Decor at Princeton Shopping Center, you get the impression that the shop is stuffed with pillows. The piles range from floor pillows, a plump yard square to "toss" pillows shaped like footballs, orange and black, of course.

It's probably the biggest selection of pillows in the area. There are even floor pillows—loads of three (only or matched pairs) with the bottom pillows mounted on a moveable stool. Some are covered with zipped corduroy, others with fake fur, including the tiger skin. The harem look is there, too. Prices range from $19.95 to $19.98 for floor pillows.

Home Decor has pillows in all shapes and sizes, with covers ranging from tweedy to very feminine, and in a good choice of decorator colors.

If you're dressing up a room, the shop has a price of $35 on can destroy a painting in a studio and Hollywood couch new minutes. The public must be careful. I have seen fan-like bolster covers. There are tastefully beautiful paintings damaged because of bad restoration."

For football games, the Troy "leisure blankets" in a zip bag (top sale at $9.98). They're made of acrylic with the brushed wool appearance in both classic and contemporary plaid.

Home Decor has imported bathroom scales from France, and among them is one that has won an international design award. The usual sharp corners are gently rounded; the dial is easy to read, and there's a good choice of colors. For fun, insert the "grass" mat with daisies over the standing area of the scale. The French scales also include a deep red with a chrome handle running north and south, parallel with your feet. Among the domestic scales, black-and-white stripes on the platform of a truncated triangle. Scales start at $12.

Home Decor is showing terry cloth robes by Royal Rose, offering two styles for women and one for men. The robes are well made in a velvety terry. For the girls, a cozy wrap abounds to about the knee, trimmed in white, or a long front zip robe in blue with gathered waist and long sleeves. For men, a navy wrap with white trim. There are other color choices.

For long, sheer curtains, see Home Decor's panels of French and Swiss voile. There is enchanting embroidery and cut work on a number of them, all in creamy white. There are also plain panels in泓onoid colors. The curtains are machine washable.

The shop has shower curtains, jewel-toned towels, cafe and full-length curtain panels, and more. Starting the bath of the month, Home Decor will have a 20 percent off sale on all of its custom draperies, window shades and woven wooden blinds (including the Roman blind). For future selection, there are sample books about five different fabric houses to browse through.

In keeping with the softer life of Home Decor, the shop now offers home cushioned toilet seats, covered with washable, non-stickable vinyl, and in a choice of decorator colors, solids and prints. Ask for Cush'N Soft.

Princeton University in the last fiscal year balanced its budget after two years of successive deficits totaling about $2.5 million. President William G. Bowen reported Monday at the first faculty meeting of Princeton's 227th year.

As late as January, the University had forecast another deficit of more than half a million dollars for the fiscal year which ended June 30. However, growth in income, primarily from unprecedented alumni support, and savings in administrative costs resulted in a slight surplus of $32,000.

President Bowen said that such a small surplus in a budget of nearly $800 million should not be invested with great meaning, but that "it is significant and encouraging that the trend toward larger and larger deficits has been reversed and that we are now in approximate financial equilibrium."

Along with the Trustees and President Emeritus Robert F. Goheen, Dr. Bowen as Provost was deeply involved in Princeton's determination of priorities prior to his succeeding Dr. Goheen as president last June. As in the case of other major American universities and colleges, Princeton's financial problems became particularly acute at the end of the 1960's.

Annual Giving Credited. "The improvement is due, in good part," said Dr. Bowen, "to the extraordinary success of last year's Annual Giving campaign, which raised $3.8 million of unrestricted funds — $300,000 more than had been expected. Seeking to maintain that level of support — and, indeed, increasing it — has to be an important objective for all of us, for our success in this regard will affect greatly the educational and research programs of the University."

"One improved financial situation is also due in no small measure to the extraordinary efforts made through the University to economize, to maintain the quality of our educational programs while spending less. We ended 1971-72 spending some $240,000 less in administrative areas than expected as late as January, and that is the second main reason for the small surplus. While it is true that the largest part of the savings have been achieved in administrative and supporting services, no part of the University has been exempt from the need to hold down expenditures—even for important purposes."

Costs which exceeded the University budget projection included: $107,000 for security, mainly in proctor and guard overtime, because the achievable savings in this department proved to be too optimistic; and a $58,000 shortfall in income from the University's rental properties, largely due to delays in resolving complicated issues posed by governmental price controls.

NEIGHBORS AIR CONCERN

Over Proposed Gym Use. For nearly an hour Tuesday night, the Recreation Board listened while two Boudinot Street residents aired their concern over proposed recreational use of the former Miss Fine's School gym by the Recreation Department.

Joseph R. Bachelder of 36 Boudinot, who did most of the talking, told the board that it was his understanding the gym would be used for volleyball and basketball leagues, dances and theatricals. Neighbors in the area, he said, would like to see restrictions against noise, glare and traffic.

He proposed some type of insulation to protect adjacent properties against noise and suggested that air conditioning be installed ("an expensive item") so that windows could be closed in the spring and summer.

To counteract any glare, he proposed that a wall be erected to protect the two properties immediately behind the gym.

It appeared most concerned about the prospect of increased traffic and parking. With no seating, the gym cannot support an audience for athletic events but he was apprehensive about the parking that dances and theatricals would generate. "The gym has a great stage and its central location would make it an attractive spot," he said. The gym is located in a residential one zone.

Commenting on theatricals and dances, he added: "If it happens five or six times a year that's one thing; if it happens every weekend that's another."

Told that no architectural plans or cost estimates to renovate the gym had been made—it has no heating or plumbing, Mr. Bachelder requested "before you many plans are drawn and before budgets have been set" that a report be made available

Campus Bike Registration

Borough police will carry their bicycle registration program to the Princeton University campus this month.

On the Wednesday afternoons of September 20 and 27, police will be at Stanhope Hall from 1 to 5 to register student bicycles as a safeguard against theft. A number is stamped into the frame and is then registered by police, together with the manufacturer's serial number and a description of the bike. There is no charge.

Assisting the police is James Kopiner, assistant director of security for the University. Additional information is available from 452-3131.

to the police in advance so the people in the neighborhood could react to it.

Only a question of cost.

Board member William Armer assured Mr. Bachelder that the problems of noise and glare could be "technically solved" to the 100 percent satisfaction of the neighbors. "It's only a question of cost."

E. P. Louner, who lives directly to the rear of the gym at 12 Boudinot, told the board that he had kept a count of the month's activity.

Subsequent sessions will be devoted to Emergency Childbirth, Heart Attacks and Strokes, Bits and Poisons, Drugs, Eye Injuries, Mental Disturbances, Hospital Relations, Cardiopulmonary and Resuscitation. Co-ordinators of the initial meetings are Dr. Frank L. Barham, chairman of the Medical Center's Department of Utilization and Peer Review, and Nathaniel J. McKee, the Center's Assistant Administrator for General Services.

He did mention one occasion when four persons were playing instruments and their music was electronically amplified through open windows. I went over and asked if they couldn't tone it down a bit," he said. He reported he was told by one, "Hell, no! We can't have any fun if we close the windows."

Acting Chairman Sanford Reynolds pointed out to Mr. Bachelder that the Recreation Department actually doesn't have the gym yet. It is essentially a trade-off with the Princeton Nursery School for a piece of property at Community Park, still subject to approval by the governing bodies.

Also that the board was not agitating the gym just as "addon" space. "We want it not as a substitute but as an extension," he said. "We can't accommodate all we want to do in our own program. We need more facilities, more programming."

Finally he assured the two that the board would "never undertake a venture like this if we could not satisfy the neighbors."

SEMINARS PLANNED

For First Aid Units. With the Medical Center at Princeton acting as sponsor, a weekly seminar series relating to emergency rescue and treatment procedures will be offered members of District 9, Ambulance and Rescue Squad Units during the next several months.

Dr. Thomas L. Evans, a member of the Medical Center's Department of Pediatrics staff, will be the speaker at the opening seminar session Thursday, September 21 at 8 p.m. in the meeting rooms of the Center's hospital unit on Witherspoon Street. Dr. Evans will discuss Pediatric Emergencies and Communicable Diseases. A question and answer period will follow.

Subsequent sessions will be devoted to Emergency Childbirth, Heart Attacks and Strokes, Bits and Poisons, Drugs, Eye Injuries, Mental Disturbances, Hospital Relations, Cardiopulmonary and Resuscitation. Co-ordinators of the initial meetings are Dr. Frank L. Barham, chairman of the Medical Center's Department of Utilization and Peer Review, and Nathaniel J. McKee, the Center's Assistant Administrator for General Services.

Hall for land once used by Miss Fie's School.

Since the land on which Mr. Yedlin wants to build is not "peculiarly suited to that particular use," and the land across from Community Park is ideally suited to such a particular use, I respectfully request the Board to consider this suggestion in the event that they feel there is a need for low-income housing in the Township, and that a use variance is in the public interest and would contribute to the public good.

CHARLES J. FREERICKS

Public Housing Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter I have sent to the Township Zoning Board in support of the application regarding the proposed housing at Ewing and Mt. Lucas Road.

LUCY D. HACKNEY
172 Red Hill Road

I am writing to urge the Township Zoning Board to approve the application of Benedict Yedlin to build housing units for elderly and low income citizens on Mt. Lucas Road. I am a resident of the area and certainly will be affected by the addition of one hundred new families to our neighborhood. But, I feel strongly that Princeton must provide more housing for its low and middle income citizens. According to recent housing studies Princeton University, Princeton Hospital and the Borough and Township governments employ many people who earn under seven thousand dollars a year. There is almost no housing available for these employees.

In the seven years I have lived in Princeton the lack of adequate low and middle income housing has been a constant source of concern to me and many other Princeton residents including the majority of our elected representatives on both Borough Council and Township Committee. We cannot support low and middle income housing and then say "but not in my neighborhood."

If only half the effort now being expended to prevent the Yedlin application could be spent planning ways we could welcome these prospective new neighbors into our area we could be assured it would be a successful project. I know there are many neighbors who will work in this direction.

Greetings Dr. Harter.

the face, by the word-of-mouth in Princeton.

I'm quite sure it won't come as a shock to all the word-of-mouthers, when people say they resent what has been said, the way in which it was said, and the people misled and ignorant though they may be, who said the things they did.

Parents who have not experienced difficulties with their children really shouldn't be so quick to criticize others. The time may never come when you'll face trying times, however the possibility that you will is great. If and when this time comes I hope you can stand up to all the assaults you will receive from people like yourself.

A person who carries gossip is a person that carries gossip be he at home or on the streets. To the people on the streets, either because they don't want to get off, or don't have enough sense to get off, keep talking!

And to the people at home who repeat and carry what being said in the street might as well join the street talkers. To everyone; in order to correctly diagnose a person as being crazy, you must first obtain the needed knowledge and college diploma. So ask yourself how many people do you know who have this diploma? If the shoe fits, wear it.

Ellsberg and IDA.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

One June 12, 1972 a group of citizens known as "Citizens in Search of Peace" pledged to devote further time and energy to reveal to all members of the Princeton community the true character of the activities of the Institute for Defense Analysis; further, Citizens in Search of Peace also pledged to work for the removal of IDA from the Princeton Township.

To that end a widely circulated petition for a redress of grievances delivered to IDA Communications Research Division (CRD) was but the first phase of our continuing effort. We recently invited Daniel Ellsberg to address the Princeton community on the crucial issue of secrecy that prevents public scrutiny of many of the military's inactions; activities of governmental institutions doing research and development work in the defense area.

Mr. Ellsberg will speak at Alexander Hall, Princeton University campus, at 8:30 p.m. on Friday evening, the 16th of September. On behalf of Citizens in Search of Peace I take this opportunity to invite you, as a member of the greater Princeton community, to attend Mr. Ellsberg's talk.

The matter to which he will address himself is intimately related to our own moral obligation to prevent IDA — or any other organization that is primarily devoted to secret research for the military — from using Township funds. Essentially the same rationale that has been successfully relied upon to eliminate IDA from Princeton University applies to the Princeton community as a whole.

President Nixon's policy of pursuing peace through war makes the IDA issue a moral imperative. While I am writing this letter and while you are reading it, Nixon's armada of air and naval power drops 2 tons of bombs every sixty seconds in Indochina, imperiling the very existence of millions of helpless civilians. Indeed, this is the greatest air and naval armada ever assembled in the history of war.

As citizens of Princeton, but also of the world, we cannot and must not harbor any institution in our community that is contributing to this growing human tragedy. We particularly regard IDA as an appropriate target of political activity because of its role in developing the electronic battlefield on behalf of the search for enduring peace in America.

His visit provides an occasion on which to exhibit our own form of conscientious objection to the war machine whose roots presently tangle the moral fibers of countless numbers of communities across this land of ours.

Letters on Poor Attacked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mr. Freerick's letter along with Mr. Dumey's companion piece in last week's TOWN TOPICS was out of sight. In essence they say get the poor out of our sight, or rather get us out of their sight.

These two gentlemen have managed to paint a Bosch-like landscape of the bleary-eyed "Poor" gazing hungrily at the lush lawns of the affluent owners of the $50,000 homes strung out like pearls along State and Ewing.

Rather than these "ghetto" dwellers, I submit it is these two representatives of that section of town themselves who are locked into their own cell-like cubicles in the shape of their own restricted view of the world.

Simplistically, they would have us believe that because of this unhealthy situation, these "poor" would have only to spend their many idle hours plotting how to destroy this display of the affluent good life.

After reading this drivel, I can only urge all fair minded citizens of the Ewing - State - Mt. Lucas area not to be taken in by this rot that appeals only to the baser recesses of our natures. It must be possible for these residents to avail themselves of the true facts of this case stripped of all the emotionalism and irrational fears.

Have they attended Zoning Board meetings, Township Committee sessions, and Planning Board meetings? Have they personally questioned individual elected officials or planning Board members to ascertain for themselves the Facts about the plans, design, financing, and rationale of the project?

Probably, the biggest eye-opener would be to personally tour the Lloyd Terrace project also run by the Housing Authority, which is a good example of low-income public housing that this town has planned, built and is currently operating for its elderly population.

The misconceptions and outright ignorance of these two men of Princeton's commitment made several years ago to provide housing for all its residents, especially for the less economically fortunate members who over the years have been forced to leave our town, is sad indeed.

Why are our elected representatives on the Township Committee, our governing body so silent? It is time for them to either make a statement reemphasizing this — our town's — commitment, or better yet to call a town meeting on housing to air this issue that has resurfaced with an unhealthy residue of elitism and racism clinging to it.

After a few years of exhilarating and intoxicating dream of brotherhood and a reaching out to others, it seems now we have sunk again to the depths of despair and denial. Won't our leaders speak out and rededicate us again and again and again lest we fall back asleep. For we might find out when it is too late that we are unable to wake up even if our dreams begin to bestir us once again.

League Backs Housing.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the statement given to the Princeton Township Board of Adjustment by the League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area in support of the Yedlin proposal to build 100 units of low-income housing for the Borough Housing Authority.

MARIANNE REES
Municipal Chairman
CORNELIA HOPFIELD
Chairman, Public Policy:
Housing and Environment Committee

The Princeton community has long been aware of the need for low-and-moderate-income housing for Princeton residents and employees in Princeton Township. Recent studies such as the Sternlieb, Landauer, and Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council reports have reaffirmed this urgent need. Recognizing these housing priorities, the Master Plan for Princeton Township allows for the building of non-profit low-and moderate-income multi-family units.

Princeton Township residents have, in recent years, become eligible to apply for the 120 units of Borough public housing. However, there is a long waiting list for these units and Township residents are not given priority.

Low-income housing for the elderly is particularly in short supply, as is demonstrated by the waiting list for the Lloyd Terrace project. The shortage of low-cost housing is depriving many Township residents, especially our elderly and young people, of the opportunity to continue to live in Princeton.

Mr. Yedlin's proposal before you provided for in the Master Plan, will help to maintain the diversity of population that Princeton must have if it is to continue to be the vital and interesting community we all enjoy.

The site selected for this project is large enough to allow for low-density housing and is within reasonable distance of shopping facilities. It is on the New York bus route and the Trenton bus route could easily be extended to it. The project could also be included in the proposed mini-bus route to serve Princeton Community Housing. There is no other available site as close to these facilities.

Therefore, because this proposal is consistent with the Master Plan, because of the number of Princeton Township residents who need this housing, and because of the desirability of the site, the League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area urges the Board of Adjustment to recommend a use variance be granted to Benedict Yedlin to build the Housing Authority's proposed 100-unit development.

Lettuce Boycott Attacked.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In your August 31 issue, you published a lengthy letter from Marjory Pratt, Pennington, supporting the boycott of head lettuce by Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers Union.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Pratt did not present all of the facts. She is either naive, or has deliberately chosen to believe only what the Chavez people have told her. What she should do is go to the production area in California, as I did last year, and talk to the workers in the fields, rather than swallowing whole the clever propaganda of the Union and its officials.

In the case of table grapes, what happened was that Chavez was able to finally close off the terminal markets to non-union grapes, which meant the farmers could not sell their grapes. The banks in turn put the heat on the farmers and the farmers were coerced into signing contracts with Chavez, which provided, among other things, that a farmer must hire only union workers seven days hence.

There was no vote of the workers. The workers had no choice in the matter. This is what Mrs. Pratt calls a "democratic" union?

Recently in New York City, two California farm workers, Dolores Mendoza and Leonor Santiago from Delano, held a press conference, describing themselves as "captives of Cesar Chavez's union," and said that Chavez is helping to make poverty—not solve it.

They said the activities of Chavez had greatly reduced available jobs to farmworkers in California, many of them making between $5 and $7 an hour. They said most workers had experienced loss of jobs, loss of income and loss of freedom in two years of working under a contract forced on them when growers had to sign with Chavez.

There is absolutely no reason why a consumer should concern herself with the lettuce boycott. More than 85 percent of the head lettuce grown in California and Arizona is harvested under union contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Why should a consumer care whether the lettuce is picked by Teamster or UFW workers? Most of the lettuce is union lettuce. Why should we take sides in a jurisdictional dispute?

The truth is that the Chavez movement has produced a lot of violence and threats of violence; that Chavez is against legislation that would give the workers a secret ballot to decide their own future; and wants to continue using the secondary boycott in agriculture, a practice that has been outlawed in all other industry for many years.

AILEY DANCERS COMING

To Trenton in October, tickets are now on sale for the first Trenton appearance of the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater. The company of young dancers, which has been winning electrifying audiences and critics around the world since its birth in New York in 1958, is coming to the War Memorial Theater on Sunday, October 8, at 3 p.m.

According to Andrew Estey, director of the Princeton Ballet Society, which is sponsoring the Ailey performance in Trenton, ticket prices have been sealed on a "bill honest" break-even basis.

"This is not a fund raising event," she explained, "but simply an effort to bring to the State capital and the 2,000-seat War Memorial Theater one of the greatest dance companies of all time at popular prices."

When the Ailey troupe returned home from a highly successful world tour for a two-week engagement last spring at the New York City Center, there was a greater advance sale of tickets than for any other event, dance or non-dance, in that theater's history.

The company has performed in Europe, Australia, North and South America, the Far East and on U.S. State Department sponsored tours in Africa and the USSR. On their fifth European tour, Mr. Ailey received a record setting 40 curtain calls from the audience in Hamburg.

Alvin Ailey, director of the company and its principal choreographer, is the inventor of blues, jazz and spirituals. He has also choreographed for the Metropolitan Opera, American Ballet Theatre (including the much acclaimed "The Rite" with music by Duke Ellington), the Joffrey and Harkness Ballets, and most recently choreographed the Leonard Bernstein Mass, which opened Washington's Kennedy Center.

Tickets for the performances are available through the Century Ticket Agency, 35 N. Willow St., Trenton, or the Princeton University Store. Prices for orchestra seats are $1.50, $1.75 and $2.75; balcony, $1.50, $2.50, $3.50, $4.50 and $5.75.

The War Memorial Theater is located across the parking fields from the N.J. State Museum and Capitol Building complex.

MANAGER NAMED

By McCarter Theatre, William T. Gardner, until recently managing director of New York's Urban Art Corp., where he produced and managed the layout productions of the current Broadway musical hit "Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope," has been engaged as General Manager of Princeton University's McCarter Theater.

Mr. Gardner, whose appointment was announced by Daniel Soffer, chairman of Princeton University's Committee on Theater, takes administrative control of operations regarding McCarter's new Professional Theater Co., opening its first season Oct. 26.

The responsibilities include coordination of McCarter's crowded schedule of musicals, drama, pops, and other theater events.

A native of Troy, N.Y., Mr. Gardner was a founder and first president of New York's Off Off Broadway Alliance, a cooperative organization established to promote the interests of this highly significant area of American theater.

Previously, Mr. Gardner was an executive assistant with the Theater Communications Group and administrator of TCG's casting information service. From 1963 to 1968, he was a job development supervisor and rehabilitation counselor with the New York State Department of Labor. In Manhattan, he was co-founder, actor and director with Off-Broadway's Theater 13.

Nicholas and Alexandra (now playing) is a box-key spectacular about the downfall of the Romanovs and the end of imperial Russia. The emphasis is on character rather than action, and the horror of the times is held to a slow, steady burn. When the end comes for the Romanovs, the shock is all the more powerful.

It is difficult for an actor to portray a good or weak person and have him engage the viewer's interest for three hours, but Michael Jayson's quiet interpretation of Nicholas builds slowly and firmly. Janet Suzman as his more forceful Empress, is equally successful.

Based upon Robert K. Massie's biography, the film opens with the birth of the couple's son Alexis, and during the first half details their tragic discovery that he has hemophilia and the Empress' dependence on the peasant mystic, Rasputin. Tom Baker is the monk, gives the one flamboyant performance. The Romanovs glide around their palace like enchanted lovers, and the film treats them sympathetically, but at the same time shows where they were in the wrong.

PLAYHOUSE

The Other (now playing) is a Gothic chiller involving two twin boys and a family beset down by horrible accidents.

The story is set in the 1930's. The Perry family homestead includes an old barn where sinister deaths have occurred over the years, and, for some reason, a series of grotesque happenings begins to plague the family again.

The key revolves around the twin boys, Niles—a murky sort, and Holland, who seems even more so (played by Chris and Martin Udvarnoky). Niles likes to play "the game" taught to him by his Russian grandmother (Uta Bogen) whereby he can feel what it is like to be buried. Holland carries around a decayed finger wrapped in blue tissue.

The grisly story, first appearing as a bestseller by Thomas Tryon, has credibility gaps that were not so apparent in the novel form. Tryon's script tosses events in bewildering succession, probably due to the editing of the two-and-one-half hour film down to 102 minutes.

COUNTRY FESTIVAL SET

In Griggstown Saturday. More than 40 local artists and craftsmen will display and sell their work at the Griggstown Country Festival set for 11 to 5 this Saturday, at the Reformed Church in Griggstown.

The festival will also feature a Swedish dance group, blue grass musicians, a flea market, and displays on the history and ecology of the Millstone River Valley.

Sponsor of the festival is Franklin Citizens for Orderly Planning, a group devoted to preservation of the historic and natural values of the Millstone Valley. The proceeds will be used to oppose large-scale development along the Delaware-Raritan Canal.

"We have been tremendously impressed with the response of the community," said Mrs. Lee Bullitt, Chairman of the Festival Committee. "Everyone, from nine-year-olds to grandmothers, seems to be pitching in to save the Canal."

The flea market will include antiques and other items donated by area residents, as well as brand new gifts contributed by more than 20 area merchants. Bibliophiles will find a book sale with old and new volumes, children's books, and garden publications. Several craftsmen will provide demonstrations, ranging from weaving and pottery making to batik and tie dying.

Although not a primary purpose of the festival, it will also help to fight inflation. Griggstown youngsters are planning to sell a number of food items, including brownies and soft drinks, for five cents each. Hot dogs will cost more. In addition there will be stands offering farm produce and a variety of homemade foods.

INSTRUCTION EXPANDED

For Youth at Westminster. The Westminster Choir College Preparatory Department has expanded its offering this year to include instruction in flute, cello, violin, classical guitar and bass as well as voice, organ and piano.

The department will be headed by Louise Cheadle, a Princeton resident and a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, who was recently appointed Director.

Mrs. Cheadle holds an artist's diploma in piano under Sascha Gorodnitzki from the Juilliard. She is the winner of many awards and prizes for her playing including the Pittsburgh Concert Society award.

The Westminster Preparatory Department offers musical training to students of all levels of ability from grade school through high school. The program includes the traditional weekly lessons, and also classes in music theory and related workshops designed to compliment the applied lessons.

Registration and auditions will be held on the Westminster campus through Monday. For further information, write or call Louise Cheadle, Director, Preparatory Department, Westminster Choir College, Princeton, New Jersey 08540; 921-7100.

MUSICIANS SOUGHT

For Community Orchestra. A unique role in the musical life of the Princeton area is filled by a non-performing group of local amateur and professional musicians now beginning its ninth season.

The Princeton Community Orchestra is a "reading" orchestra that provides the opportunity for its members to participate in a symphonic ensemble and to become acquainted with much of the symphonic literature without the demands for the technical perfection required for concert performances.

While the orchestra has performed at the invitation of the Music Club of Princeton on several past occasions with soloists such as William and Louise Cheadle of Princeton and Lois Shaffer of Trenton, it does not present formal concerts as such.

The membership of over 50 instrumentalists is drawn from Princeton and the surrounding area and comprises men and women from high school age upwards. Included are many housewives, businessmen, scientists, educators, technicians, and artists, as well as professional musicians.

The Princeton University Opera Theatre has announced auditions for its production of Hector Berlioz's comic opera "Beatrice and Benedict." There will be four performances: December 15, 16, 18 and 19 in Murray Dodge Theatre.

Auditions for solo parts will be held Friday and Sunday, September 22 and 24. Candidates will be asked to prepare a given segment of the role in question. For a copy of the music and to make an appointment for an audition, those interested should see Mrs. Thompson at the Department of Music, Woolworth Center.

Auditions for the chorus will be held through this Thursday. To make an appointment for an audition call Mrs. Thompson (452-4241). Former members of the Princeton University Opera Chorus need not reaudition, but they must call Mrs. Thompson before this Thursday if they wish to participate in this year's production.

Because the choruses in "Beatrice and Benedict" are musically more demanding than most opera choruses, chorus rehearsals will begin Thursday, September 21.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC CHAMBER CONCERTS

Music from Marlboro. Masterpieces of the Chamber Music repertoire, performed by artists who prepare these programs during the summer at the Marlboro Music Festival. Artists will include pianists Ruth Laredo, Lee Luvisi; violinists Felix Calimir, Jaime Laredo, Hiroko Yuijima; violists John Graham, Nobuko Imai; cellist Ronald Leonard; clarinetist Richard Stoltzman.

The Da Capo Chamber Players (Allen Blustine, Clarinet, Helen Harbison, Cello, Joel Lester, Violin, Patricia Spencer, Flute, Joan Tower, Piano) is an ensemble of five young musicians drawn together by their experience in and dedication to the performance of contemporary music. The Da Capo policy of presenting some works twice on the same program is based on the strong conviction that two readings make possible a more penetrating listening experience, particularly of a new piece.

Michael Podolski, Lutenist and Christiane Van Acker, Mezzo-soprano. The famous team of Belgian musicians offer a unique program of Lute Music and Songs to the Lute from the time of the Renaissance and the early Baroque. Their superb scholarship and impeccable musicianship makes them masters of their rare art.

ART In Princeton

VARIED EXHIBITS ON
At Galleries Here, The Line, delicate, fine and subtle, often becomes the strongest and most expressive element of a drawing or print. Spontaneous in drawing, controlled and definite in etching and lithography, line can be used to create tonal passages, whimsy or somber mood through texture, calligraphic effects and the nature of its relationship to the subject.

In a drawing, line tells us how the artist feels while in the more controlled graphic media, the line often tells more of how the artist thinks, both of his art and his subject, and is the direct result of both his talent and his training.

At the University Art Museum. It is possible to learn a great deal about artist-in-residence Richard Savini whose sketches are on display in the Prints and Drawings Gallery. Crayon, pastel, wash and pencil drawings, as well as sketches are all in evidence.

Most are studies of models, simply and quickly executed. The artist's skill and sensitivity of line is often masked by formal framing and matting. The freshness and immediacy of the figure sketches done by Savini deserve an equally fresh and informal setting.

Lines, both crisp and soft contrast and play against each other to reveal the soft, yet delicate contours and form of the subject. Occasional tonal areas delicately extend the two-dimensional representations into three dimensional effects.

The artist's skill in tonal representation is well displayed in an architectural landscape. Soft, well-fashioned greys are heightened and developed by the contrasting darks and strongly functioning white areas. A few wash studies of models complete this display.

An entertaining addition to the sculpture collection can be heard and seen in the Morton Gallery. "66 Balls and Their Cylinders" is a kinetic sculpture by Belgian Sculptor Pol Bury. It is a visual experience that adds time and motion to its other dimensions.

Whether it is an aesthetic experience or an entertainment is not immediately discernable. However, it is a continuing happening in spatial relationships that can be viewed as a continuous harmony, much in the same way that a tank full of fish comforts, soothes and fascinates.

Or it can be observed on a much more intellectual plane, evaluating and relating the changing forms and contrapuntal clicks and hums created by the motor inside.

The bench in front of the dynamic sculpture invites the passing observer to stop and relate to it on whatever level and in however many dimensions he may choose.

At The Princeton Gallery Of Fine Art. Etchings and demonstration of line in art. Portraits, literary scenes and a few wash drawings represent an artist whose talents, skills and profound statements are harmoniously combined in a symphonic display of powerful and meaningful art.

collection is a series of portraits of important literary and historic figures. All represent their subject on multiple levels combining a mastery of medium with an emphatic and structured use of form and space.

The sculptural background of this artist is revealed in powerful volumes created by intense contrasts and modeling with tones. Large forms sparingly used against white areas interact to create a depth and sense of color that transcends the black and white of the medium. Fine lines used to create textural areas intensify the tonal feelings of the compositions. Several scenes combining figure and landscape display the poetic as well as visual skills and sensitivity that are Wells'. A strong statement is made combining great visual beauty with an unearthly, yet very real sense of human pain and horror. This feeling is also conveyed in a group of wash and pencil studies.

At the Artisan, The Artisan gallery is featuring an exhibit of offhand glass by Vermont Craftsman Peter Bramhall. Offhand glass is glass that is melted and hand-blown into various forms. The molten substance has color added to it. When it is heated and made into bowls and containers the color makes fluid forms within forms. Bramhall's glass retains the textures created by the heat and the thousands of small air bubbles retained in the transparent thick glass shapes. Crazed surfaces, fluid surface forms and soft color pattern are combined in this collection of useful and decorative craft.

BRIDGES ARE SUBJECT

Of Art Museum Exhibit. As a pair of wheels moves across a replica of a railroad bridge, it creates a symphony of colors. Viewed through a polariscope an instrument for producing and analyzing polarized light, the model bridge is part of an unusual exhibition — which will be on display in Princeton University's Art Museum through October 8.

Mounted by a team of 3 faculty members in the Department of Civil and Geological Engineering of the School of Engineering and Applied Science, the exhibit, entitled "Bridges and Sculpture," celebrates a double centennial: 100 years of engineering at Princeton and the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Swiss engineer, Robert Maillart.

The 21-inch model railroad bridge built by Robert Mark, Associate Professor of Civil and Geological Engineering, is a replica of the main span of Maillart's Landquart Bridge in Klosters, Switzerland. The 50 pounds of stress, simulating a locomotive load, applied by the moving wheels, is evidenced by the brightening, dimming and changing patterns of the colors.

"The aim," according to Professor Mark, "is to illustrate how well the bridge is designed to bear a moving load — to illustrate that out of sound analytic structural engineering, art can be born. Maillart's 'bridges,' adds Mark, "are a splendid example of a union between art and technology."

Robert Maillart has often been called a sculptor in bridges and another part of the exhibit, a 6-foot model of the Swiss engineer's most spectacular work, the Schwandbach Bridge at Schwarzenburg, Switzerland, built by Leon Barth, of the Art Museum staff conveys the impact of the bridge which according to the sculptor, Max Bill, "hovers as light as paper and seemingly links one side of the valley with the other effortlessly."

Enlargements of photographs and of slides of other Maillart bridges, many of them lent by the engineer's daughter, Madame Blumer-Maillart, along with the original designer's blueprints comprise more of the exhibit.

SPORTS FANS!

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's a football fact that's hard to believe, but it's true . . . Remember that famous pro championship game in 1940 when the Chicago Bears beat the Washington Redskins 73-0?

Well, although the Redskins lost by 73 points, they actually made MORE FIRST DOWNS than the Bears did that day! . . . It seems impossible — but here are the official totals: The Bears had 17 first downs in that game, and the Redskins 18!

What was the longest field goal ever kicked in a football game? . . . The record was set by Jim Huxall of Princeton in a game in 1962 when he kicked a 65-yard field goal . . . You'd think in all the years since then somebody would have broken that record, but no one ever has.

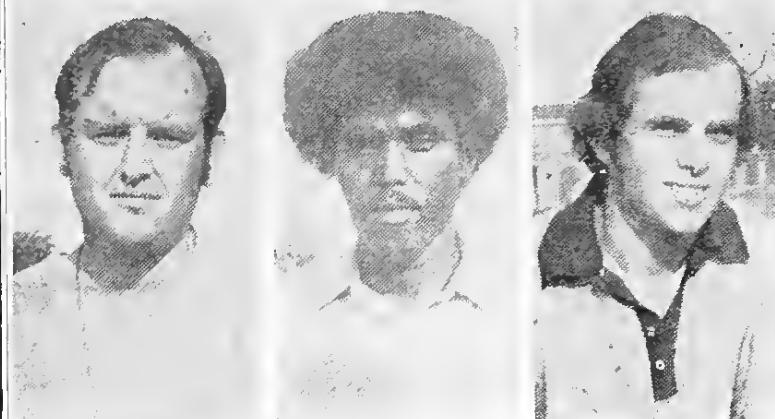

How well do you know your football rules? . . . Here's a little puzzler for you . . . Suppose a forward pass is tried and a player from each the offensive and defensive team collide and both catch the ball together . . . They fall to the ground, each holding the ball and each having equal possession? . . . What's the ruling? . . . The official rules say in a situation like this, the ball belongs to the offensive team at the spot of the catch, and is considered a completed pass.

I bet you didn't know . . . most private health insurance plans don't pay for dental expenses. Student accident insurance pays up to $100 per sound natural tooth.

New Faces on the PHS Football Coaching Staff

Geoffrey Hill

Geoff Hill of Charleston, S.C. attended Hill School and New Brunswick High School before earning a physical education degree from Springfield College. He then earned his Master's in education and administration from the Citadel. A giant of a man ("I'm 6'5, but I'm not going to tell you how heavy I am"), Geoff coached football and was head track coach at Chicora H.S. in Charleston before coming to Princeton. He lives in Princeton Arms Apartments.

Donald Cartwright

Don Cartwright played his football at Elizabeth City High School in N.C. where he was a quarterback. From high school he entered the Air Force and coached and played quarterback for his base's football team. His job at PHS, he says, is his first crack at high school coaching and he reports that he is looking forward to it. Both he and Geoff Hill will be working exclusively with the sophomore squad. Don lives in Trenton.

Thomas Malshury

Tom Malshury is a first at PHS: he is the school's first athletic trainer, something the coaches had requested—unsuccessfully—for many years. A graduate of Allentown High School where he played football, Tom attended West Chester State College in Pennsylvania. After one year of football there, he became a student trainer for all major sports for the Rams. He will be a full time trainer for all sports at PHS, including girls' field hockey. He lives in New Egypt.

(This is the second of three articles on Princeton High School's football prospects for 1972.)

Before many games in the 1971 season had been played, followers of the Princeton High School football team were searching for any apparent strength that might be credited to the Little Tigers. There were none.

There were a lot of breakdowns, however, and one of the most glaring was the offense. It was virtually non-existent. The cold statistics: a total of 30 points for the entire season, never more than one touchdown in any game and in three . . . no points at all.

A large portion of the game for the zero offense must be laid at the feet of the offensive line. This year, a completely new offensive formation has been installed by Coach Dick Wood; more open, more explosive, more dicey than those used in the past by the Little Tigers. The blocking must be there. And so a large portion of whatever success the offense will enjoy this fall must again be laid at the feet of the offensive line.

There are five linemen returning who lettered last year: Dave Cowan and Frank Caponi, co-captains for the team; Tom Mason, Gil Spencer and Jeff Lewis. Caponi, however, will play full time on the defensive platoon this season.

Following them are the senior and junior linemen candidates:

Folds: Gil Spencer will be joined by seniors Howard Sweeney and Leon Robinson. The latter, a center on the basketball team, did not come out for football last year but Wood reports that the new formation, which relies on a lot of passing, "is ideal for him because of his ability and size."

Sweeney, about 6'0, is exceptionally good, says Wood in running patterns and getting away from his defender. He was hurt a lot last year, however, and did not see much action.

Four juniors hoping to break in are Buddy Kleiber, Phillip Price, Steve Towns and Richard Warfield. Wood described Warfield as probably the best receiver of the four but only a fair blocker. Kleiber is the biggest.

Tackles: Wood appears set with lettermen Dave Cowan, 6'0, 193, and Tom Mason, 6'0, 205. "We ought to be strong there," he said.

Junior candidates include Angelo Arcaro, Foster Schuen, David Harwood, Guy Mendelson and Dan Poling with the last three possibly winding up on the defensive platoon.

Arcaro is another member of the football Arcaro brothers. Tony was an outstanding tackle about five years ago and Nick, now a linebacker at Wake Forest, won all county honors as a fullback for the Blue and White. Although Angelo, like his brothers, possesses all kinds of talent, he has failed to live up to his capabilities on the gridiron.

Poling is 5'10, 5'7, but is surprisingly fast for his weight. "He's one of the quickest at 40 yards and could be the strongest player on the squad," commented Wood.

Harwood is a hard nosed player who performed mostly on defense last year, while Mendelson missed half the season after being operated on for an elbow injury.

Guards: Seniors are Frank Boyer, who played occasionally last year but not enough to better, and John Giannacini. Solid and fast, Giannacini missed virtually the entire season with a leg injury. "He's real eager to play," said Wood. If the squad can match Giannacini's spirit, it will do all right.

Junior backups include Blair Thompson and Phil Bryne, both good blockers but lacking in speed. Jeff Drummond and Louis DiFaleo, Wood calls DiFaleo, co-captain of the undefeated sophomore squad, his "Blue Chipper." "He's got good size — about 180 — blocks well and is very coachable."

A running tackle last year until he was injured, Drummond was moved to guard because in the new formation the running is done by the guards. "He really wants to play," said Wood. Drummond is about 170.

Center: Jeff Lewis, 5'9, 170, played the position last year. He can expect competition from John Figueras and Roe Aiman — both good centers in the single wing on the sophomore team. Figueras, re-self, now starting his fourth year as Dick Wood's chief assistant. Probably no one works harder at moving the Xs and Os around than Jim. "I'm a technical man," he admitted.

He installed a multiple, prototype defense and had great success with it in his second year but he acknowledges there was a break down last year. "Some of our players just didn't put out," he said.

As a result, the defense, like the offense, is going to have a new look this year. Beachell reports that he has worked hard all summer simplifying, making it easier. "The big thing is confidence. If the kids know what their doing and gain confidence in themselves, that's the important thing."

"I gambled a lot last year; I'm going to protect myself more this time," Beachell commented. One of the areas

he hopes to tighten up is pass defense, where the Little Tigers were burned repeatedly last fall.

It isn't going to be easy. Beachell admits he is "shy on experience" and most of the inexperience will be in the backfield. He is going to have to depend on a lot of juniors coming through. He is being assisted by Frank Francisco.

Following is a lineup of candidates for the starting defensive platoon.

LINEMEN: Senior candidates will be headed by Billy Alexander, a 240-pound fullback last year who Beachell said is one of the fastest players on the team. Others include Richard Guzy, Wes McClain, Guy Pierson, the Rossi twins, James and John, and Tony Towns. Towns played some as a guard on last year's varsity. Juniors include Angelo Arrearo, Phil Bryce, Louis DePalma, Jeff Drummond, Dan Poling, Blair Thompson and Dan Fortney. All are pretty much inexperienced, says Beachell, but Poling is an outstanding candidate.

Linebackers: Number one is Frank Caponi, co-captain of the team. "He should make all-county; he's tough," commented Beachell. Alan Schwartz is another senior linebacker.

Among the juniors are Jack Bayer, George Bess, David Harwood, Guy Mendelson, Richard Warfield and Ronnie Campbell. Harwood was one of three sophomores on last year's varsity and seems a sure starter. Campbell will play one of the outside linebacker slots. Beachell describes him as the "fastest man on the team."

Backs: One of the deep backs will be Dane Black, one of the few who will play both offense and defense in the two-platoon system. An end on offense, Black played a lot in the defensive secondary as a junior.

Two other senior candidates are Wray Blattner, a strong contender, and Mal Mukkin, out for the first time.

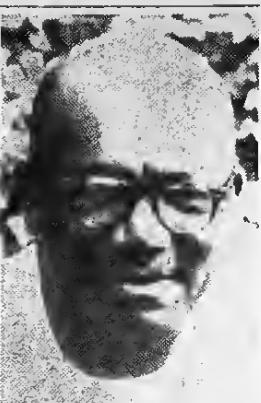

Juniors include Kevin Scudder, Bobby Zinsmeister, Stephen Kopp and George Reynolds.

Zinsmeister played last year on the varsity. Kopp and Reynolds are members of the undefeated sophomore team, with Reynolds possessing perhaps the most football "savvy" of all, according to Beachell.

PREP PLAYERS EXCEL

In CYO Basketball League. Several basketball players from Hun, Princeton Day School and Lawrenceville enjoyed fine seasons in the Catholic Youth Organization summer basketball league.

Hun guard Kevin Tylus was named most valuable player of the senior high school division, ending with a 21 point per game average. He led his team, Bowker's Memorials, to the regular season championship.

NEW HUN TRAINER: Fredrick M. Holmes, Sr., a member of the athletic training staff of Princeton University for the past 30 years, has been named trainer at the Hun School.

Hun sophomore Brian Logue won the sportsmanship trophy of the junior division, while Bill Hollowell of Hun was a member of the senior championship team. A newcomer, Jim Sweeney of Lawrenceville was named most valuable player in the junior division.

Three PDS players, Mark Ellsworth and Ron Webster, both members of last year's fine Panther quintet, and Ed Konstantinowicz all had fine seasons in the league — early indication that PDS is going to be strong in the sport again this fall.

SUNFISH SAILORS BACK

On Lake Carnegie. The Sunfish returned to Lake Carnegie on Sunday to begin the fall race series for Carnegie Sailing Club trophies. Light, gusty winds and bright sunshine welcomed the 16 competitors.

Ed Metcalf and Bob Holzman dominated the races, with Metcalf claiming top spot with two wins in five starts. Dan Mazzarella, Joel Johnson and Dick Hill rounded out the top five finishers.

The fall picnic of the Carnegie Sailing Club will be a lakeside event this Sunday. Members and guests will bring their own food; the club will supply beverages and grills for cooking.

Tigers Juggle Backfield in Search for Claws

Efforts to bolster Princeton's inexperienced backfield were made during the final week of practice at the Blairstown training camp, two more position switches further shuffling the personnel.

Larry Chollet, the starting split end a year ago, had been scheduled to take over at flanker to replace Bill Skinner, who had been switched to split end. Now Chollet is the ranking tailback, and Kevin English, a defensive halfback for the past two seasons, has been installed at flanker back.

Chollet's move was dictated by the need for greater experience in the position that Hank Bjorklund held for the past two seasons. He will have senior Derek Lilly and junior Dave Foellinger as his replacements. They had been listed as the principal running backs, but neither has had sufficient work there to earn the starting assignment.

English is a two-year letterman who broke into the starting defensive platoon in the middle of his sophomore year. His ball-carrying experience on the varsity has been limited to punt returns but at 6'2, 193, he has the physical attributes to take over at flanker.

Four Unavailable. The numerous problems which the Tigers seem sure to encounter in the difficult year ahead have been compounded by the absence of four players who had been counted on as members of the 1972 squad. Two were lettermen.

Baron Jones, who won his letter last fall and had been listed as the starting split end, is out of college because of illness in his family. Roger Hudson, a 269-lb. linebacker, did not report for practice at Blairstown. A letter-winner.

Lawrenceville finished last year with a record of four wins and four losses. The schedule this year includes Penn Charter Sept. 23; Deerfield, Sept. 30; away, Williamsport, Oct. 7; Andover, Oct. 14; Puddie, Oct. 21; Mercersburg, Oct. 28; away; Choate, Nov. 4 and Hill, Nov. 11, away.

Following is a capsule summary on each of the 11 boys from the Princeton area on the Lawrenceville football squad.

Robert Andresen, son of Mrs. Marion F. Andresen of Princeton, Rob started on Lawrenceville's 9th grade team last year. Coach Keuffel calls him an excellent line prospect both at the offensive and defensive guard positions. Rob is also a good hockey and tennis player.

Ridgely Cook, son of Ridgely W. Cook of Rocky Hill and Mrs. I. T. Blount of Princeton was an outstanding player on Lawrenceville's 9th grade team last year and Coach Keuffel rates him a good prospect for the junior varsity this year.

John Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Jr., of Princeton, Jack played on Lawrenceville's 9th grade team in 1970 and was outstanding on the junior varsity last year. He is an offensive and defensive tackle and Coach Keuffel gives him an excellent chance to be in the starting varsity lineup this year.

John Dunahue, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dunahue of Princeton, Dave won his major L in football last year. He started as a defensive end and filled in as a blocking back. He was one of the mainstays of the team last year. He also plays hockey and lacrosse at Lawrenceville.

Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Jr., of Princeton. Sam is an offensive and defensive end. He played well on junior varsity last year and is rated as a good varsity prospect this year.

James Fitzpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzpatrick of Princeton. Allen is an offensive center and a defensive backer. Coach Keuffel gives him an excellent chance to be in the starting lineup this season which will be his third on the squad. Allen also plays hockey and lacrosse for Lawrenceville.

Jeffrey Friedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Friedman of Princeton. Jeff played on Lawrenceville's 9th grade team last year and will probably be prominent on the junior varsity this year as an offensive center and a defensive end.

Michael Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott Hill of Princeton. This will be Mike's first year at Lawrenceville. Based on his experience elsewhere the coach rates him as a good junior varsity prospect in the backfield.

Samuel Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Scott of Princeton. This will be Ren's first year at Lawrenceville. He has played offensive fullback and defensive halfback, and is called a fine all around athlete.

Edward Swanezy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Swanezy of Princeton. Scott will captain Lawrenceville's varsity this year after winning major L's in the last two seasons. Coach Keuffel calls him one of our best players. He also plays basketball and lacrosse.

Andrew Tomlinson, son of Mrs. Janet E. de Grouchy of Princeton. Andy played on Lawrenceville's junior varsity last year as an offensive end and defensive safety.

HALL OF FAME DIRECTOR
John Bernard Honored. John Bernard, under whose guidance Pee-Wee hockey was originated in Princeton, has been named to the board of directors of the U.S. Hockey Hall of Fame.

A member of the Class of 1947 at Princeton, Bernard launched the program when he returned here to live a decade later. Within a few years, some 200-300 boys 7 to 14 were involved daily during the winter season, and similar leagues had been organized in two nearby communities. An officer in the Princeton insurance agency of Sturhahn, Dickenson and Bernard at 12 Nassau Street, Bernard has also officiated in the sport on numerous occasions.

The United States Hockey Hall of Fame is currently under construction in Eveleth, Minn., and is expected to be dedicated next June. The facility, which will be the first for the sport in the United States, will honor those Americans who have made significant contributions to hockey as players, coaches, referees, and administrators. The Hall will cover all phases of hockey in the United States: high school, college, amateur, international and professional. Display rooms will be devoted to those areas and there will also be a theater and library.

"We're delighted to have John Bernard as one of our directors," commented the Hall's Executive Director Roger Godin. "He brings with him a wealth of hockey experience and knowledge, as well as giving us a greater Eastern perspective."

EIGHT TEAMS ADVANCE

In Springdale Tournament. The first round of match play in the annual Governors' Cup Tournament at Springdale Golf Club saw half the original field of 16 teams eliminated. An 18-hole qualifying round Saturday gave low net honors to Hal Moran and Jack Sweeney as they shot a better ball of 62, using full handicaps.

Two of Sunday's matches went into extra holes, and two others were decided on the 18th green. Ed Johnson and Doug Walmsley carried Moran and Sweeney to the 19th green before they met defeat.

The day's longest match saw Alan Frank and Robert Lewis go to the third extra hole before ousting Joe Masick and Mike Shillaber. Other 1-up victories in regulation distance were won by Alan Poole and Paul Schafer over Sam Chase Jr., and Ralph Mather and Bill Pearce over Ted Tams and Oliver Houghton.

John Hoff and Maurice Coffey, Jr., eliminated John Miller and Bob Goethals, 5 and 4. Asa Farr and Jack Futerer won from Dick Parsells and Tom James; Bob Cronin and Jim Schwartz defeated Bill Millman and Tom Jamieson, 3 and 2; and Karl Pettit, Jr., and Oliver Houghton.

New boys interested in playing can register Friday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 in the Valley Road School gym. To be eligible a boy must: reside or attend school in Princeton; have his parent's written permission; have medical permission from the family doctor; be no less than 9 nor more than 13 during the calendar year; not weigh over 125 pounds.

HUN WANTS IT BACK

Lost Football Eminence. Having been king of the mountain for three straight years during which it did not lose a single game and having been knocked off hard last year, the Hun football team will be seeking to regain its pre-eminence this fall.

"I think we can get back up there," stated Hun coach Dave Leete. "The kids have got talent; the spirit and enthusiasm have been good. If we get on track, we'll be respectable."

Leete added that the squad has had eight and one-half of double sessions so far and unlike last year—no serious injuries. "We've had a good start," he said. Following Tuesday's scrimmage with Wardlaw, Hun will scrimmage Monclair Saturday before the opening game the following Saturday here against Newark Academy.

Leete welcomes back just nine lettermen, a smaller core of veterans than usual but all are the caliber that fine teams are made of. Three are this year's tri-captains: halfback Greg Rafalski, tackle George Harper and guard Bill Mills. Leete is being assisted by Bill McQuade, who will work with the ends and defensive backs, and by newcomer Sandy Stoddard. A defensive tackle at Brown University for three years, Stoddard will coach the line.

Dave Leete

Joining Rafalski at the other halfback slot for Hun will be Ed Beagles, a senior. Junior Joe Haydu, out last year with a torn finger tendon, is expected to start at fullback. He is 5-10, 185.

Quarterback is 2. For the first time in three years, Hun will be playing without Alan Chalkford at quarterback. "It's a question mark right now," said Leete. Three are vying for the spot: junior John Videbeck, who attended Princeton High School last year, and Bob McHugh of Princeton and Andy Ferlig — both sophomores. All are inexperienced but Videbeck and McHugh have the edge over Ferlig.

At center will be Al Cohen, an experienced, 185 pound jet terminen. He is a senior. Two more lettermen, Bill Mills 175 pounds, and Scott Killary, 190, will start at guard.

Harper Anchors Line. George Harper, starting his third year on the varsity, will anchor one of the tackle slots. He is 6-3, 235 and as tough as his statistics suggest. Sandy Buck, a 190 pound junior and Ed Dalton, a senior transfer student from BMI, are battling for the other tackle position. Dalton is 6-0, 210.

At tight end will be John Marshall, a 6-2, 190-pound junior, Kevin Dwyer, a quarterback last year who earned a letter as a defensive back, has been switched to end.

Other promising candidates in the backfield include John Loughlin and Jim Petrone. Loughlin, a fine basketball player, did not play last year. He is a senior.

Petrone, younger brother of Jack Petrone who established the individual scoring record at Hun two years ago, is expected to backstop Haydu at fullback. A senior, he is 5-11, 180.

Also, Don Cuddihie, a 6-0, 195 pound tackle and Bob Rutherford, a 5-10, 190-pound guard up from the jayvees. Both are juniors. Another up from the jayvees, Mike Seward, is expected to see plenty of action as a defensive back. He is a senior.

Sophomore Ronnie Cathel has looked good in early practice as a defensive lineman and Terry McEwen, a freshman from Valley Road School, had given early signs of developing into a fine halfback.

No Help From Schedule. Hon will get no help at all in its attempted comeback (it dipped to a 3-5 record last year) from the schedule. The easy perennial victims are gone, having washed their hands of the Hun juggernaut. Newcomers include Blair, Peddie and Princeton High School, Newark Academy, the opening opponent, is the one that pulled the string on Hun's string last year, thumping the Red and Black, 38-0.

"The schedule," said Leete, "is much stronger." Other schools on the eight-game list include Pennington, which went undefeated last year, Delbarton and Pingry.

The Outlook: Last year, undeniably, was a come down for Hun. "We didn't expect a great season, but it could have been a lot better. We should have won the last two games and been 5-3 instead of 3-5," commented Leete.

A few ifs stand in the way of success at the moment. If Hun stays healthy, Leete has little depth—and if the inexperienced players come around, so the team jells quickly, then Hun could be more than respectable.

The personnel is there. "We've got some backs who are good size and pretty hard runners," said Leete. Hun will pass some but he reported he will emphasize the ground game. It is off a crunching, relentless ground attack that wears down the opposition that Hun, in the main, has established its reputation.

Hun has clearly set its sights on higher things on the gridiron; it doesn't figure to get untracked now.

TOWNSHIP TRIUMPHS

Police Top Borough in Golf. All things come to him who waits, and the Township police, who have been taking their lumps from the Borough in basketball and shooting, were on the right end last week in the annual Borough-Township-University Proctors golf match.

The Township defeated its Borough counterparts by 52 strokes and the Proctors by 83 to win the match for the third straight year. Sgt. Mike Koplin and Ptl. Frank Bocanuso led the victorious men in grey, each shooting an 83.

Patrolmen Dave Cromwell and Bob Nielsen followed with 84 and 88 respectively.

The best the Borough could counter with was an 87 by part-time basketball coach Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, who was reportedly to be quite happy that none of his teammates walked off the course.

Others among the top five for the Borough were Ptl. Doug Watson (94), Sgt. Tom Procaccino (95), and Patrolmen Art Jackson (101) and Tom Michaud (105).

Jim Koplin led the Proctors with 79. Chick Jones and Harry Kibby with 89 and 92 were the only others under

EMR SENSORS USED
Aboard "Copernicus". The photoelectric sensors, launched last month on the orbiting astronomical observatory "Copernicus", were manufactured by EMR Photoelectric, a Princeton firm specializing in ruggedized multiplier phototubes and star-trackers for aerospace and geological applications.

The space-quality sensors manufactured by EMR include highly sensitive ultra-violet types, broad-band detectors sensitive from the ultraviolet through the visible, and X-ray detectors. Meticulously manufactured in white rooms under the most stringent NASA quality standards, these low-noise sensors were continuously inspected during their fabrication.

The ultraviolet light energy received by these sensors is converted into electrical signals and stored in the satellite for later transmission to the Earth.

In addition to these sensors, EMR also provided the star-tracker which keeps the telescope oriented on any particular star, while it is being measured. This star-tracker features an EMR developed Quadrant Multiplier Phototube which performs the function of four light sensing devices in a single tube.

EMR Photoelectric has been cooperating with Princeton University for more than 10

FALL LESSONS LISTED

By Community Tennis Group. For the first time, the Princeton Community Tennis Program has organized fall activities. Interest in tennis instruction has increased so rapidly that the directors have planned classes for adults, as well as former students on the fourth through sixth grade levels.

The six-week session starts Monday, September 25, and continues through November 3.

Application blanks have been mailed to all who have previously been enrolled in the program. Forms may also be obtained from the recreation office in Township Hall.

Anyone who has not received an application should send a note with name, address and phone number to Princeton Community Tennis Program, 293 Ridgeview Road, R. D. 3, Princeton, N. J. No telephone registrations will be accepted.

The fall agenda includes women's instruction on weekday mornings, afternoon classes for elementary schoolers and evening sessions for men.

Women who are beginners, advanced beginners and first-year intermediates will have lessons at the Community Park Courts with Karen Bull. Players on the advanced intermediate and advanced levels will meet at the University's Church Courts under the direction of John Cooley.

Evening classes for men are slated for the Princeton High School courts.

The junior program is open to tennis players in the fourth to sixth grades, who have formerly had lessons.

N.Y. He had been attending the Sagamore Conference in nearby Raquette Lake, N.Y. Death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Professor Tobolsky, 53-year-old native of New York City, had made major contributions in the fields of rheology, rubber elasticity, polymer morphology, polymerization kinetics and mechanisms, and polymer oxidation.

Last April he was singled out for the American Chemical Society's high-honor award in Polymer Chemistry, with a colleague noting that "Tobolsky's achievements, which can be seen throughout the field of polymer science and engineering, have profoundly influenced the course of scientific progress."

He was also recently cited as one of the four internationally known authorities most widely quoted in the area of rubber research and in 1970 received the International Award in Plastic Sciences and Engineering given annually by the Society of Plastic Engineers.

Joined Faculty in 1946. Dr. Tobolsky joined the Princeton faculty as an Assistant Professor in 1946 after compiling a brilliant scholastic record at Columbia and Princeton Universities.

At Columbia, where he received his A.B. degree in 1940, with highest honors in physics, chemistry and mathematics, he achieved the top ranking scholastic average. He was awarded the Porter Ogden Jacobus Fellowship at Princeton as the student who, in the judgment of the faculty, evinced the highest scholarly excellence in his graduate work, and in 1944 received his Ph.D. in physics and physical chemistry.

During his early years on the Princeton faculty, he also taught and did research at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, was an assistant director of the Textile Research Institute at Princeton, and was associated with the Plastics Program in Princeton's School of Engineering and Applied Science.

In 1950 he left for a year to serve as Professor of Chemistry at the Polytechnic Institute and returned in 1951. He was appointed Eugene Higgins Associate Professor of Chemistry in 1953, was named a full professor in 1960, and since 1965 has been the fifth distinguished scientist to hold the Russell Wellman Moore Professorship.

A former chairman of the Division of High Polymers of the American Chemical Society, he received the Bingham Medal of the Society of Rheology in 1956. In 1968 he was awarded the Ford Prize of the American Physical Society for his contributions to polymer physics.

At the 25th reunion of the Synthetic Copolymer Research Group, responsible for the development and production of synthetic rubber during World War II, he was selected as the sole scientific speaker for the ceremonies.

Professor Tobolsky is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dorothy E. Tobolsky, two sons, William H. and Steven B., members of the Princeton classes of 1974 and 1976, respectively; a daughter, Mrs. Marge Irwin, of Philadelphia, Pa.; and a grandson.

The service was held at the Jewish Center of Princeton, conducted by Rabbi Hershel Matt, with interment in Beth Israel Memorial Park, Woodbridge.

Sanford Bates, 88, of 12 Baldwin Ave., Pennington, died September 8 in Mercer Hospital. He was the first director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons and nationally known as a penologist.

Born in Boston, Mr. Bates was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1906 after receiving a bachelor of laws degree from Northeastern University. He later earned a doctor of laws degree from Northeastern. He served in the Massachusetts lower legislative house from 1912 to 1914, followed by a term as a state senator. Massachusetts Governor Calvin Coolidge named him Commissioner of Correction in 1919.

"I'm impatient with passivity on public matters."

Abbot Low Moffat

That's how Abbot Low Moffat sums up the attitude that has characterized his already distinguished career in government service.

Residents of Princeton recently had an opportunity to witness first-hand the kind of innovative, thorough-going work such activism can generate. Faced with confusing and often conflicting versions of the projected impact of various state-tax-reform proposals on the Princeton tax-payer, local Democrats turned naturally to Abbot Low Moffat to help clear the air. As chairman of a select tax-reform study group he produced a detailed, 12-page economic analysis of the tax-reform program as it would affect Princeton. The study became the basis for subsequent discussion of the issue and was instrumental in bringing about the remarkable bi-partisan support expressed locally for the tax-reform principle.

Now you can help put this creative impatience to work for you even more directly . . . by voting for Abbot Low Moffat for Princeton Township Committee in the coming election.

News Of The CHURCHES

CHURCH SCHOOL BEGINS
With Registration Dinner, Folksinger Caroline Mosley will help launch the fall term of Trinity Church's Christian education program at this Sunday's special registration dinner for adults and children, set for 6:30 p.m. in Kaeser Hall. The fall term will be held September 24 through November 26 and is open to the community.

The church school is directed by a committee of 12 men and women, representing the laity and clergy. Mary B. Rice is coordinator; John Fleming is committee chairman, and the Rev. Joseph Harrison serves as adviser. The teaching staff of about 30 includes volunteer parish teachers as well as teachers and consultants from the community.

Trinity Church School aims to present fundamental Christian teachings through a varied and imaginative curriculum. Students grade 2 through 12 are offered elective courses.

"We are attempting to provide more possibilities for families to work and worship together and to be able to discuss matters of the church and concerns of the community," the brochure mailed to the church's 650 families states.

Three basic types of study are offered: Christian heritage; self-expression and church mission. Students are encouraged to alternate their electives during the three terms of the school year.

Important ingredients of the program are participation in creative forms of worship, involving drama, art, music and liturgical dance, as well as exploration of Christian doctrine and faith of the church.

New this term are the coordinate courses, Symbols, Sacraments and Celebration in which adults and young people may enroll. The participants will contribute to a Christmas celebration featuring a miracle play.

Further information about the church school may be obtained by calling 924-2277.

WHITE FLOUR can hardly be classified as flour as the time it reaches you. First the grain is treated with an herbicide and pesticide, and the seeds are treated with mercury. After the harvest the grain is sprayed with an insecticide and fumigating gas for storage. The grain and germ are removed. They contain many chemicals and preservatives, and the proteins are killed at high temperature that destroy the rest of the nutrients. In milling, the flour is treated with oxidizing agents like bromate, persulfate, iodate and nitrogen trichloride, which affect protein activity and gluten properties. Bleaching agents such as oxides of nitrogen, chlorine and benzoyl peroxide convert the yellow carotenoid pigment to colorless compounds which the consumer prefers in his wheat bread. It can then sit on the shelves indefinitely as a lifeless starch that won't keep rats or bugs away. The alternative—organically grown stone ground whole grain flours: Whole Wheat, Rye, Soybean, Buckwheat, Rice, Graham and Barley flours are waiting for you at The Whole Earth Center, 310 Nassau St., Princeton 924-7372.
